In line with Government regulations teaching and learning in the last two academic years at BOVTS was delivered in part online, in part as blended learning and in part face to face prompting a lot of innovative practice. In line with current Government regulations, it is anticipated that teaching and learning in 2022-23 may be a blend of face to face learning and online virtual learning (retaining the innovative practice developed in the last two years). The exact mix will be kept under review as Government regulations change and communicated to you in advance.

You will be based in one of the Costume workrooms at BOVTS which is designed to replicate a typical industry work-place. The work rooms are used for most of the structured learning sessions. These include masterclasses given by both school tutors and visiting industry professionals. The Course Tutor and Course Leader are based in an office on the same floor and are often available for consultations on your independent work and study during most working days.

The provision of extensive verbal and written feedback on your work is a key aspect of your learning. Verbal feedback on your work from course tutors in the work room will be frequent. You will also get regular written feedback which should be used as part of your learning. As you are based with peers in the work room you will also have the opportunity to learn from their feedback.

Outside of your workroom you will learn from working on School productions and on industry placements. School productions are an important part of the annual cycle of the School and a key environment for you to learn. You will get experience of the various roles of a costume specialist in film, TV and theatre. You will receive informal feedback from a range of School tutors and visiting industry professionals who are experts on different aspects of the theatre, TV and film world.

Your learning is intended to prepare you for a career in the costume industry. Thus, an important part of your learning will occur on placement at a costume employer(s). The placement(s) will be financially supported by the School for up to five weeks and might involve a series of short placements with a number of relevant employers. You will be closely involved in selecting your placement(s) and the Course Leader will negotiate the terms of the placement with the employer. Throughout the placement(s) the course tutors will maintain close contact with you to ensure that your learning is appropriate.

Workload including number of contact hours with School staff and expected self-study:

The learning is immersive with students taught/supervised by teaching staff for at least 35 hours per week whilst undertaking self-directed projects. In addition, you should expect to do 10 hours self-study per week during term time.

The overall methods of assessment for the Modules (for example exams, course work or practical assignments):

All summative assessments which count towards your final degree for the BA (Hons) are in the form of course work (meaning there are no exams). The overall aim of the assessment strategy is to equip you with a portfolio of skills and experience that you can professionally present to potential employers as you come to the end of your studies.

For the Research and Specialist Skills module you will be assessed on a Portfolio consisting of a range of samples (demonstrating skills and processes) and a research journal. For the Costume Construction module, you will be assessed on production of a Portfolio. This will include costumes you have produced in the work room, sets of paper patterns and photographs of the costumes in performances. You will also be assessed on your portfolio for the Costume for Television and Film module. This will consist of a Costume Continuity File, the films on which you worked, Course tutor reports from set visits, feedback from the Director and student produced fitting photographs for each character you are assigned to.

For the Industry Placement module, you will be assessed on your reflective statement, your record of your experience and feedback from the host organisation.

Modules and degrees at BOVTS are pass / fail – meaning there are no marks awarded and no classifications.
